I have been providing clinical supervision to counsellors and students for over 5 years and practicing counseling for ten years. I enjoy working with newer counselors to provide not only the clinical supervision requirement but to build confidence and ownership in this amazing profession. I create a supportive, open and safe environment for counsellors and supervisees to be heard and understood to help their clients. The major focus in supervision is on you and what you are feeling when you are with your clients.

I take a developmental and strength-based approach in clinical supervision. We work together in this journey to enhance our skills and be better versions of ourselves.
