My name is Catherine Pigeon James and I am a psychotherapist presently residing and working in North Vancouver both for the Province in Mental Health Care and in private practice. I began to work in the human services field 24 years ago as a transitional worker and subsequently worked in suicide and crisis intervention for a period of 5 years whilst studying to become a certified counsellor (CC) and then went on to study pre-social work and then social work and received my BSW and RSW. Following this, I took 6 years of psychotherapy training through the American Group Psychotherapy Association. I am now a RSW (#09965) and a RCC (#09665) in good standing and recently received the supervision RCC-ACS (Provisional) designation. I have supervised students for the past 15 years and enjoy consultation and supervision in any capacity.
