I am a settler who was born and raised on the stolen unceded, ancestral territories of the Semiahmoo, s̓q̓ə́ciyaʔt̓ təməxʷ (Katzie), Kwantlen, kʷikʷə́ləm (Kwikwetlem), Qayqayt, and s̓c̓əwaθenaʔt̓ təməxʷ (Tsawwassen) Nations; and my ancestors are from India. I am a cis, non-disabled, middle class, small fat woman.

My work is informed by an intersectional, justice-doing, and collaborate framework. I supervise practicing therapists, student therapists, and teams providing health care services and counselling services.

For me, supervision/consultation requires us to co-create safety; and a respectful, inclusive relationship so that we can (un)learn together. From there we can engage in collaborative dialogue about best practices and ethics alongside the critique and feedback. I want to make space for not only 'cases' or spaces you feel 'stuck' in the work but also how you show up relationally in the work and you. And do all of this while centering client-work and the communities we serve.
