Hello. I am a consultant/ supervisor who believes in the Person of the Therapist; in other words, meeting the therapist where they are at. I have had the privilege of working with skilled, experienced therapists who are seeking information about a specific question to brand new professionals who have more questions than answers as they start out. Many seek me out to draw on my expertise as a trauma therapist and faculty member with the Justice Institute of BC, teaching in the Complex Trauma Certificate Program.

Finally I am also the author of Balancing Conflicting Interests: A counsellor's guide to the legal system.

Consequently I often receive requests for information about legal processes.

I find that we often have the answers within us; we just need a safe place to explore this knowledge. And, as a practitioner of more than 30 years I am happy to share the lessons I've learned along the way.
