I have supervised/consulted for a wide variety of counsellors who brought a range of theories, modalities and experience to our time together. Over the past 20 years I have had the privilege of specializing in the field of trauma, addictions, and grief and loss. I have taught at the Master's level as Adjunct Professor at Adler University for over 15 years and have worked in the field of social services for over 35 years. I work as a Clinical Supervisor/Consultant in much the same way I work as a practitioner. What is similar is that I see us both bringing expertise to the table; you as the practitioner, have the expertise on yourself and your practice while I have the expertise on the overall helping and supervisory process.
