I am an RCC with extensive experience working in private practice and non-profits, specializing in trauma and complex trauma, multicultural issues, and violence recovery. With a focus on supporting diverse individuals, couples, and families, I navigate the complexities of trauma and intersectionalities, including helping survivors of violence, intimate partner violence, and torture. My approach emphasizes empowerment and resilience, guiding clients toward healing and growth. As a supervisor, I work with master-level practicum students and counsellors, nurturing their professional development with compassion and support. My commitment is to fostering a safe and inclusive environment to become a trusted ally and mentor in the never-ending and challenging journey of learning and growing as a practitioner.
