Jasmine McMurray is a Registered Clinical Counsellor with over 15 years' experience as a therapist and 10 years' providing supervision and consultation. Jasmine offers a compassionate, genuine, and collaborative working environment to help counsellors navigate complex ethical issues, sharpen assessment skills, and create case conceptualizations and comprehensive treatment plans. Her goal is to help foster a safe environment for counsellors to learn how to set goals, discuss clinical cases and sessions, deepen awareness and application of boundaries, refine and integrate theory into practice, address ethical issues, explore the process of countertransference/transference (parallel process) and deepen self-reflection and accountability. Jasmine utilizes authenticity, honesty, compassion, and some humour to bring awareness to unseen or unacknowledged areas for growth. She practices from a trauma-informed lens and hopes to foster a sense of learning and growth in a respectful and professional manner.
