Hello, my name is Kashmir Besla. I have been involved in the counselling field for nearly thirty years. I live and work in Surrey. I have had the honor of providing clinical supervision for many years now, beginning with students that were completing a practicum placement at a local non-profit agency in Surrey. I also spent a year providing support to a group of female counsellors at a sexual assault centre in Vancouver. Over the years, I have worked with new and highly experienced therapists that wanted to have useful conversations about the work they are doing and being able to openly discuss their strengths and challenges. It is my privilege to walk alongside those that come from a place of curiosity and respect for this sacred work. I personally continue to learn and grow. I seek supervision from peers and attend a supervision group that has sustained me for over twenty years. I look forward to working collaboratively with you.
