As a clinical supervisor, I help my supervisees grow in a supportive and collaborative environment. I emphasize reflective practice, encouraging them to conceptualize their therapeutic approaches and client interactions. My approach is tailored to meet each supervisee's unique needs, whether new to the field or experienced. I focus on building knowledge and skills while also tuning into ourselves and our clients. I help supervisees become more self-aware and attuned counselors. With additional training in expressive art therapy, I guide them in accessing their inner wisdom, insights, and attuned alignment through creative processes. I prioritize open communication and provide constructive feedback that is both affirming and challenging. My goal is to inspire and empower supervisees to become skilled, compassionate, and reflective practitioners.
