My name is Janel Derrick and I have been working in the field of psychology in one form or another for over 25 years. I work from a few therapeutic orientations including Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT), Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT), Attachment-based work, Person-Centered Therapy, and a Feminist lens. In addition to this, I have expertise in working from a sex-positive perspective to support specific issues around sex and sex-related concerns, such as sex life, sexual preferences, sexual identity, and pain during sex, among others. I provide individual clinical consultation and supervision in the above noted areas for clinicians working with individuals, couples, ENM couples, and families. In addition, I can provide specific support for those working with individuals on the autism spectrum. Please see my website at www.invictacounsellingservices.com for further details.
