I am a Clinical Supervisor with 15 years of experience in the field and 8 years of experience providing supervision. I gained my supervisor experience as a team leader providing clinical supervision Child and Youth Mental Health teams. Since 2021 I have continued to provide supervision to other private practice clinicians. I am certified in the Neurosequential Model of Supervision developed by Kristi Brandt and based on Bruce Perry's work. The core principles of my practice are understanding the nervous system, reflection and supportive exploration of challenges and successes. My extensive experience combined with my commitment to these core principles, allows me to support counsellors in deliver compassionate and effective care to their clients.
