I provide clinical supervision for counsellors working with adolescents, adults, and parents, focusing on comprehensive mental and emotional wellness. My integrative supervision model is tailored to each counsellor's needs, seamlessly transitioning between roles as educator, counsellor, and consultant. Grounded in mindfulness principles, I emphasize self-awareness and presence as essential to clinical practice, encouraging a therapeutic focus on connection over solutions. Recognizing the unique dynamics involved in supporting clients through various life stages and relational challenges, I support counsellors in exploring effective strategies while honing intervention techniques, conceptualization skills, and personalized therapeutic approaches. If you're seeking a supervision experience that values therapeutic presence and relational depth, I invite you to connect for a complimentary 20-minute consultation to discuss your professional growth.
