I am both a registered social worker and a registered clinical counsellor. Since 1987, I have worked with children, adults and families in a variety of non-profit, health authority and private practice settings, dealing with issues such as child protection, addictions and complex trauma. My clinical work is guided by modalities that include Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing (EMDR), Internal Family Systems, and a variety of somatic, attachment, and transpersonal approaches. Inclusion is at the core of my practice, and I am committed to creating a welcoming and affirming space for people of all backgrounds and identities. I am also committed to supporting efforts toward reconciliation, justice and healing for Indigenous individuals and communities.

For the past 25 years, along with my private practice, I have provided clinical supervision, clinical supervision of supervisors and consultation in these public and private settings, as well as in university Counselling Psychology master's programs. My intention is to provide an emotionally safe, supportive and respectful space for a supervisee to reflect on all aspects of their clinical work, including work with clients as well as self-reflection about responses to this work. At the core of my values as a clinical supervisor is my commitment to supporting each supervisee's confidence in their own unique and authentic style. It is a pleasure to assist counsellors on their professional path, and I find this work to be exceptionally rewarding.
